Jobs of the seventies require "Preparedness" - just what the letters spell out (above), according to Mrs. Pauline Depew (standing, far right), guidance counselor, who was the main speaker Thursday afternoon at the monthly meeting of Junior Future Homemakers of America at Appomattox Intermediate School. These 8th and 9th graders, looking forward to highschool graduation in 1976 or 1977 may work 25 years or more in a job outside their homes, said Mrs. DePew. Ten job skills and/or professions were illustrated by Jr. FHA members in appropriate costume. Taking part (from left) were Gay Honeycutt, Cindy Guill, Jay Allen, Cheryl Robinson, Geneva Le Warne, Dona Steepe, Sharon Watts, Janice Gagneur, Lillian Miller, Margaret Lampkin, Sharon Paulette and Charlene Rush (whose "S" letter is hidden behind the speaker's stand. With at least 480 occupational choices from which to choose, these students and others should be able to find a career to bring personal pleasure and satisfacton, said Mrs. DePew. HER STRONGEST ADVICE WAS THIS, "Get that high school preparation first."

'Jobs Of The '70s' Presented By Jr. FHA

by Jeannette Clark, Reporter

The "Jobs of the '70's" yes, that's what the Appomattox Junior Chapter Future Homemakers of America are talking about and that was the chief topic at their monthly December meeting.

The highlight of the program came when Gay Honeycutt, chapter first vice president, introduced our guest speaker, counselor of Appomattox County High School, Mrs. Pauline DePew. Mrs. DePew gave many interesting and helpful ideas on the following jobs with each job portrayed by one of the chapter members, First was Teaching, illustrated by Cindy Guill. The job of teaching requires four years of college and the outlook, according to Mrs. DePew, is "limited."

Second was Nursing with Teresa Allen dressed in uniform and cap. A nursing career requires four years of college and job outlook is rated "excellent." Third was Cheryl Robinson, dressed to look like a Librarian, a profession which requires four years of college and a "good" job outlook according to the speaker.

Fourth job idea was that of a Social Worker portrayed by Geneva LaWarne. Social workers generally need four years of college with growing need for this type of work giving the profession an "excellent" rating by Mrs. DePew. Dona Steppe took the part of a Health Worker, a profession calling for two to four years of college and an "excellent" rating.

Sixth Jr. FHA member to appear on stage was Sharon Watts portraying a Clerical Worker. Mrs. DePew stressed that completion of high school is of benefit to almost everyone and practically a necessity for a clerical worker. Outlook for this type of work she says is "limited."

Margaret Lampkin took the part of a garment factory worker under the general listing of Operatives. Once again, Mrs. DePew stressed the need for a good high school education for women in the "operative" type of job which she listed as "limited."

There is always a place for Sales Workers, said Mrs. DePew as Lillian Miller appeared as a sales person. High School education is preferred and the outlook for a job future, "good."

The general category of "Services" was next illustrated by Janice Gagneur, those jobs and professions that require special training such as that of the beautician which Janice portrayed.

The parade of job ideas was climaxed by the "Homemaker" which Mrs. DePew said stands at the top of the list, In a world of working women she said that the role of "homemaker" should never be overlooked.

The cast members on stage then picked up individual letters which spelled out "Preparedness" - the ingredient which Mrs. DePew says is absolutely necessary for success in any job, profession or other undertaking.

During the earlier part of the Jr. FHA meeting Cindy Harris, our Chapter secretary read the minutes for the months of October and November. They were approved, The treasurer, Joyce Foster, presented a report, Cindy Guill, Degrees committee chairman, told the Chapter how eighth graders could earn their Junior degree and how ninth graders who have not received the Junior degree can do so this year.

Pam Moore gave a report on the executive committee and Vicki Bryant gave details on the work of the Welfare Committee, Vicki told us about Christmas gifts purchased for Juanita Yates. Juanita will be given those gifts this Sunday.

The meeting was conducted by chapter president Carla Varner with devotions led by Nancy Mayberry. Sheila Franklin led the pledge to the American flag.

IN MEMORIAM

Just like a rose she was picked from our view
She was needed in heaven with God's chosen few.
I guess Jesus thought her unsafe here below
So he called her home while she was ready to go.
That beautiful smile on her face that we kissed
We never knew sorrow 'til that face we missed.
Time and tears cannot erase
The hurt we felt when she died.
But it eases the pain
To know an angel has bloomed on the other side.
In memory of Nancy Leigh Grisham who died December 31, 1961
Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grisham and family.
